NATION'S BUDGET IS 17 BILLIONS

Common Council Adopts $40.68 Tax Rate for 1941

Bond Issues Authorized At Session

City to Sell $221,678 Issues Later This Month and Another in 1942
Sends Letters Communications Are Sent Regarding Bond Issues

Kingston's general tax rate for 1941—exclusive of the school tax—was fixed at $40.68 when the Common Council Tuesday evening unanimously adopted the $1,230,965 budget prepared by Mayor C. J. Heiseleman.

The aldermen also authorized bond issues totalling $221,678.26 to be sold later this month, and a bond issue of $30,000 to be sold in 1942.

The bonds to be issued this month cover:

$100,000 for the WPA program.
$60,000 for street improvements.
$23,000 for home relief.
$38,678.26 fire and street department equipment.

The bond issue of $30,000 authorized to be sold in 1942 was to cover the cost of the city's share of the WPA program until April 1 of this year.

Communications regarding the bond issues were sent to the council by Mayor C. J. Heiseleman in which he explained that $134,678.62 had been expended during 1940 and that the additional $87,000 was for new financing.

Mrs. Adele Bregman and her daughter, Attorney Bessie Bregman, were the only citizens who attended the council meeting last night and objected to the increase of 76 cents in the city's tax rate.

They were extended the privilege of the floor at the request of Alderman Walter Donnaruma.

Mrs. Bregman said that she objected to the raising of the tax rate at the present time as Kingston was being taxed to the limit, and conditions do not warrant any increase in taxes at this time.

She said that downtown was "in an uproar" over the proposed tax rate for 1941, but that there were a number of people who were afraid to appear at the meeting and oppose the mayor for fear he would refuse to give them work when they needed it.

Mrs. Bregman said that Kingston could get along with less recreation if the program had to be supported by the taxpayers. She said the city does not need a municipal swimming pool, art museum, etc., if the taxpayers will have to pay for them. The taxpayer today has all he can do now to pay his taxes, without increasing the tax rate, Mrs. Bregman added.

Miss Bregman said she had been asked by certain residents downtown, who did not care to have their names mentioned, to speak against the increase in the tax rate. She said that the mayor had stated he could buy snow plows now because they were cheaper. "Why doesn't he buy real estate?" she asked "it is cheaper than snow plows. Let the mayor try to collect rents from relief workers and pay the taxes and let us see if he can do it."

Mrs. Bregman said that the mayor in his message wanted to put more men at work in the city hall. "Doing what?" she asked, "there are more men now on the payroll than the taxpayers can afford to pay for."

Miss Bregman said the objection was made to increasing the number of paid firemen at this time and also to the appointment of another deputy fire chief. She also objected to the increase of over $1,000 in the appropriation to the civil service board.

Objection also was raised to the proposed pedestrian walk from Hasbrouck avenue to Hasbrouck Park since "for many years we have found it safer and more convenient to enter the park by means of the city streets, and do not approve of youngsters going through the woods to a park. The expense could be used for improving the city's sidewalks."

Donnaruma Speaks
Alderman Donnaruma said that he was going to vote for the budget, since it was evident that the majority of the aldermen were going to vote favorably on it.

Plane Is Wrecked At Airport; Men Escape Injuries
Pilot Attempts to Get Bearings, Hits Pole on Brabant Road

Harold Gold and Larry Serlin of New York city were uninjured but their Liescomb plane was badly wrecked Tuesday afternoon when they attempted to set their plane down on the Kingston Airport which is covered with a hard crusty snow. The plane was damaged when it struck the telephone line which runs along the Brabant road east of the field, collided with a telephone pole and nosed over.

The two young men were en route to Kingston to visit Jack Shorr, of North Front street, who is a relative.

The pilot arrived in Kingston from Floyd Bennett Field about 4:30 o'clock to find the field covered with snow. It was their first trip to the airport and after circling the field to get their bearings they attempted to set the plane down when children ran out on the field and caused them to take to the air.

Too Much Speed
In their second attempt to come down they found their landing speed too great to stop before reaching the east end of the field. Rather than apply their brakes suddenly and break through the snow crust and nose over, the pilot attempted to gain altitude again but was so close to the wires along the Brabant road that the tail struck the wires. The plane was thrown downward and the right wing struck a pole damaging the wing. In an effort to avoid crashing into concrete poles (Continued on Page Eight)

Blockade to Lift
Children to Get Food
London, Jan. 8 (P)—The British government has agreed to a personal request from President Roosevelt to allow clothing and foodstuffs for children in unoccupied France to pass through the British blockade, it was disclosed today.

The consent was given with the understanding that the distributing would be under the direct supervision of the American Red Cross.

Highlights Taken From Governor's Budget Address

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8 (P)—Highlights of Governor Lehman's defense message today to the 1941 Legislature:

The fate of those conquered nations of Europe has taught us that neither neutrality, distaste for war, nor willingness to practice appeasement insures maintenance of peace. Total defense is the only answer to total war.

Today the American way of life is threatened. Its very foundations—justice, tolerance and liberty—are challenged.

We are preparing America, not only against the danger of conquest, but also to assure peace in America.

A national defense cannot succeed without the genuine cooperation and assistance of industry. The industry of New York state has demonstrated that it is ready and anxious to cooperate.

In these critical times the ranks of labor must be united behind the great national effort. Workers and employers must work together. All labor groups must work together.

We must prove to the world that, in our devotion to American democracy, we are as one. We must show that the Nazis were wrong when they sneered there are "no convictions in democracy—no real convictions for which men would stake their existence."

I strongly recommend legislation be adopted compelling employers to reemploy men upon their discharge from military service. We cannot permit these men to be penalized for performing their patriotic duties.

We must strengthen our defenses against enemies within as well as against attacks from outside our borders. We must oppose vigorously all subversive elements.

Let us not place under unjust suspicion any American citizen because of his racial origin. Citizens of foreign birth, as a group, are entirely loyal to this country and wish to serve it with devotion as do the rest of us.

The state owes a duty to our men who have been called into military service to afford them reasonable protection against oppressive and untimely enforcement of civil liabilities.

Rapid development of national defense will impose additional responsibilities and burdens upon agriculture. It must also be prepared to play the important part that will be required of it once war ceases. Millions of people in Europe, Asia and elsewhere will need abundant food supplies.

Mercury Hits Zero in City For Coldest Day to Date

While the official city thermometer at the city hall was recording a low of 4 degrees shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, thermometers on Abel street in Wilbur were registering zero in the coldest weather so far experienced this year.

The close to zero temperatures continued to grip Kingston throughout the morning hours. At 8 o'clock this morning thermometers on the Strand were recording a low of 6 degrees.

The extreme cold weather resulted in the freezing over of the Rondout creek. So far this winter the ice in the lower creek has not been of sufficient thickness to permit skating.

At West Hurley at 5 o'clock this morning Deputy Sheriff Reynolds reported the glass was at zero.

Devotes His Message to Safeguards

Governor Opens 164th Session of State's Legislature; Asks Dozen Laws

Begs for Harmony Tells Lawmakers They Must Erase German Sneers

By JOHN WIGGINS
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8 (P)—Governor Lehman exhorted New York's legislature today to weld every individual and resource of the state into a phalanx of "total defense" against an American repetition of European "disaster, destruction and slavery."

Opening the 164th session of the legislature the governor called for more than a dozen laws thrusting agriculture, industry and labor directly into a program strengthening safeguards against aggression.

"There must be no partisanship or political bickering," he said. "We must prove to the world that, in our devotion to American democracy, we are as one."

"We must show that the Nazis were wrong when they sneered that there are 'no convictions in democracy—no real convictions for which men would stake their existence.'"

Devoted to Defense
Devoting his annual message solely to defense and deferring until next week his recommendations for economic and social legislation, the governor asked assurance of economic protection to all entering military service and bolstering of guards against subversive activities and sabotage.

Job protection for soldiers and sailors by "compelling employers to reemploy these men upon their discharge from military service," and prohibiting their discharge "without cause" within one year after reemployment were provisions for differential pay for state and municipal employees inducted into the federal service to those conscripted under the selective service law.

"I am very hopeful," the governor added, "that private employers will seek, where circumstances permit, to supplement the army pay of their employees inducted into military service."

No Change Is Made in Leadership At 164th Session of State Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8 (P)—New York's Legislature, opening today with the largest Republican majority in more than a dozen years, begins the 164th session without change of legislative leadership in either party.

Lawmakers of both parties after caucuses last night agreed to retain their entire party organization for two years in both Senate and Assembly.

Meanwhile, Republican Senate Majority Leader Joe R. Hanley emphasized a party pledge for "economy" in the 1941-42 state fiscal program. He reported a majority sentiment, as far as ordinary state expenditures are concerned, for rejection of any new taxes and "every possible effort" toward reduction of present levies.

The party, he said, is inclined to support as far as possible Gov. Lehman's defense program but added "it will be scrutinized closely."

Highlights From Budget Message Given by F. D. R.

Washington, Jan. 8 (P)—Some of the outstanding passages in President Roosevelt's budget message to Congress:

A wry turn of fate places this burden of defense ($28,000,000,000 from June 1940 to June 1942) on the backs of a peace-loving people.

The whole program set forth in this budget has been prepared at a time when no man could see all the sign posts ahead. One marker alone stands out all down the road. That marker carries not so much admonition as a command to defend democratic way of life.

It is dangerous to prepare for a little defense. It is safe only to prepare for total defense.

The time has come for immediate consideration of assuring the continuation of the flow of vitally necessary munitions to those nations which are defending themselves against attack and against the imposition of new forms of government upon them.

When we recall the staggering changes in the world situation in the last six months, we realize how tentative all present estimates must be.

President Names 'General Staff'

Knudsen, Hillman, Knox and Stimson Chosen to Fulfill Defense

Washington, Jan. 8 (P)—Four men, chosen by President Roosevelt as an industrial general staff with sweeping powers to complete the arming of the nation, called today on all Americans to subordinate everything to "the necessity of defense."

President Roosevelt signed an executive order last yesterday establishing an "office of production management" and named William S. Knudsen director general; Sidney Hillman associate director general; and Navy Secretary Knox and War Secretary as members.

Stripped of detail, their task is to put the full drive of industrialized America behind the defense program which has been lagging in several important phases.

Even before their formal commissions were signed, the new board members joined in a statement urging the cooperation of capital and labor and of "every man, woman, and child in the United States if we are to make (Continued on Page Eight)

Forecast of Things to Come

But, Mr. Roosevelt continued, even these big sums—62 per cent of them earmarked for defense—were only "a forecast of things to come." "No one can predict the ultimate cost of a program that is still in development."

The sole guiding "marker" down the road, he added, was "a command to defend our democratic way of life."

In line with the assertion of his annual message that the nation put "patriotism ahead of pocketbooks" in helping defray defense costs, the chief executive called for increased taxation but made no specific recommendations.

Counting today's recommendations, the President estimated that since June 1940, defense appropriations, authorizations and requests aggregated $28,480,000,000.

The only reason today's requests were not higher, he told reporters, was industry's apparent inability to produce any more weapons than had been budgeted.

President Requests Record Sum

No Provision for Aid to Britain, Greece and China Is Scheduled in Budget

Asks More Taxes

Tax Revenues to Reach Highest Peak in U. S. History

Complete text of the President's budget message will be found on page five.

Washington, Jan. 8.—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for $17,485,528,049, in an unprecedented peace-time budget reflecting "a world at war" and the huge cost of preparing "for total defense."

Mr. Roosevelt allotted $10,811,314,600 of his 1942 budget exclusively to national defense, estimated the deficit for the year beginning July 1 at $9,210,093,049 and foretold a public debt pushed by that deficit to a record of $58,367,065,056 by June 30, 1942.

No Provision for Help
The budget made no provisions for the cost of aid to Britain, Greece and China—an extensive program to be covered in subsequent appropriations request.

Congressional leaders said that the overall cost of this alone might eventually total $10,000,000,000, but were uncertain on how great the actual cash outlay would have to be for the first year.

Irrespective of these future aid requests, nothing in treasury history compared with the huge figures presented to the Senate and House since the last year of the World War when spending reached $18,522,895,000 and the deficit $13,370,638,000.

"A wry turn of fate places this burden of defense on the backs of a peace-loving people," the President said of the budget which was read by clerks.

Forecast of Things to Come
But, Mr. Roosevelt continued, even these big sums—62 per cent of them earmarked for defense—were only "a forecast of things to come."

"No one can predict the ultimate cost of a program that is still in development."

The sole guiding "marker" down the road, he added, was "a command to defend our democratic way of life."

In line with the assertion of his annual message that the nation put "patriotism ahead of pocketbooks" in helping defray defense costs, the chief executive called for increased taxation but made no specific recommendations.

Counting today's recommendations, the President estimated that since June 1940, defense appropriations, authorizations and requests aggregated $28,480,000,000.

The only reason today's requests were not higher, he told reporters, was industry's apparent inability to produce any more weapons than had been budgeted.

In this connection, however, Mr. Roosevelt revealed a $3,000,000,000 program of factory construction to increase industrial defense capacity—mostly privately financed—and said the budget still might be boosted if some of these new factories could get in production quickly enough.

Tax revenues, he said, would reach the highest point in American history at $8,275,435,000 in the 1942 fiscal period, but congress should enact more—deciding itself the types and amounts of the new levies.

New Record of Income

National income, the President predicted, also would rise to a new record of about $87,000,000,000 in the fiscal year—exceeding 1929 by $7,000,000,000—and thereby would produce the greater tax yields.

Turning to non-defense costs, which he cut $600,000,000 from the 1941 totals, the Chief Executive explained the absence of deeper reductions in these words:

"Democracy as a way of life is equally at stake. * * * Only by maintaining these activities (relief, social security, regular government activities, etc.) can we claim the effective use of resources which our democratic system is expected to yield, and thus justify the expenditures required for its defense."

Summarizing the $28,480,000,000 defense program, undertaken since last June, the President said it included $13,704,000,000 to multiply the arms nearly six times (from 250,000 to 1,400,000) and equip it with the "most modern devices of motorized and mechanical warfare": $11,587,000,000 to double (Continued on Page Eight)

German Press Will Label Roosevelt's Speech Arrogant And Historically Incorrect

Berlin, Jan. 8 (AP)—The German press, replying to President Roosevelt's speech on Monday, will call his Monday message to Congress "arrogant beyond description and, as compared with his fireside talk, even less dignified, more abnormally nervous and more fraught with historical inaccuracies," it was authoritatively reported today.

The press also, it was said, will assert that, no matter what aid Roosevelt may decide to give Britain, it will be too late.

There will not be any "official" German reaction on the grounds that the President's message to Congress Monday brought no new viewpoints which would make it worthwhile to take official cognizance," the same sources said.

Anyone who understands the German press systems, however, knows that the reply of the press will come in accordance with precise instructions and will reflect the views of the highest German quarters.

It was said that the press would hark back to the slogan "Don't let yourself be provoked," used by the Nazis when, before 1933, they "used to be insulted, egged and stoned" during their propaganda marches.

Hitler to Sit Tight
In other words, Hitler proposes to sit tight at present and do nothing that might precipitate open conflict, these sources said.

It was reported that the press would say:
"The German people can only shake their heads at the President who says the American people should keep their heads soft but their hands hard—they wonder how the President's own head looks inside."

"The message constitutes provocation to Germany, Italy, Japan and Russia."

Roosevelt, the press was expected to say, completely misunderstands and misreads historical and territorial processes in Europe, yet "with an arrogance that simply cannot be excused" tries to deny these processes and paint the German people to his American people as his enemy.

Attitude Incompatible
It was expected that the press would point to Roosevelt's attitude as incompatible with so much talk about peace in the United States.

"In former times," the press was expected to comment, "the American President's message to Congress used to be something which attracted attention of the whole world, but now our German people will simply shake their heads."

It seemed likely that German editors would make an extensive effort to show that America owes so much to German contributions that the President has no right to adopt a "holier than you" attitude toward Germany.

"Roosevelt is trying to violate, disturb and arrogantly destroy all that European civilization built up so that one simply cannot discuss it, but must relapse into astonished silence," some papers were expected to say in effect.

Roosevelt alone, it was said, such papers would declare, is looking for military bases in Latin America for the United States, and no other nation has such desires.

U. S. Will Need Almost 11 Billions for Second Year Of Gigantic Arms Program

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt informed congress today that $10,811,314,600 would be needed for the second year of the "gigantic program" for "total defense."

The budget message request boosted to $28,480,000,000 the estimated cost of the enormous rearmament effort on which the nation started in June, 1940.

Even that "vast sum," Mr. Roosevelt told the legislators, was only tentative, because the program was incomplete and "no one can predict the ultimate cost."

In submitting his defense estimates of almost $11,000,000,000 for the twelvemonth beginning next July 1, the Chief Executive said that the funds were necessary for the nation's rapidly expanding armed services, for full speed munitions production, and for other preparedness purposes.

Specifically, his message asserted, the additional money would provide for a "great increase" in American airpower, for a navy with doubled manpower, and for completing a fivefold expansion of the army from its 1940 strength of 250,000 to the 1942 goal of 1,400,000 troops with the most modern equipment.

Mr. Roosevelt reported that "behind the lines a whole new defense industry is being built with the financial assistance of the federal government." In addition to the 125 new plants for which contracts have been let, more were planned, he said.

The President notified congress that proposals regarding aid to Britain and other nations would be "over and above this budget," and that he would have supplementary requests to cover the program of training civilians for defense occupations.

Returns on Sales For Seals Still Continue in Area

Although the annual Christmas Seals Campaign formally closed New Year's Day, returns from sales are still coming in, it was revealed today by H. Van Wyck Darrow, treasurer of the Ulster County Seal Sale Drive.

"Here is a check for the Christmas Seals I received," wrote one late donor.

"I am sorry to be so slow, but I was out of town for the month before the New Year."

Another explained that he made his substantial contribution by saying that he received an unexpected office bonus during the holidays but didn't get his letter written until after New Year's.

"I wanted to send something earlier," said another worker, "but I was unemployed. Just today I was promised a job starting next week. Out of my first week's pay I am going to send you what I can. I know how bad tuberculosis can be."

Mr. Darrow stated, "Further contributions for the work of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association are acceptable at any time, but will be most appreciated if received during the coming month when plans are being made for the critical year awaiting us."

Adding to its Kitchen Library series of information and recipe booklets which recently included cabbage and cauliflower, the Department of Agriculture and Markets has now arranged for the free distribution of a recipe book on brussels sprouts and broccoli under the title "All in the Family."

It will be sent upon request to Consumers' Information Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, N. Y.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Jan. 7—Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hansen and their daughter, Karen Ann, of Greenport, L. I., are visiting at the home of Mr. Hansen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Hansen.

The wedding anniversary cake presented to the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer January 1 was a gift of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Ernest Smith is reported ill. Miss Marion Galignon of Brooklyn, who spent the past week as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hoyer, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Hahn and their two children, Helen and Kurt, Jr., who have been spending several days at the home of Mrs. Hahn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Pedersen, have returned to their home on Long Island.

The district school opened again this week Monday morning after the Christmas vacation.

Harry Hoyer, who has been spending his Christmas vacation at the home of his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hoyer, has returned to his home at Springfield, Mass., to again take up his studies at Springfield College.

Last Saturday evening, the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer, John A. Barringer, Mrs. Florence N. Christians and Mrs. Katie Davis were at Whitfield attending a birthday surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Every. The party was in honor of Mrs. Every's birthday which was last Friday. There were 25 present from Krumville, Poughkeepsie, Accord and Whitfield.

Monday of this week the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer were at Valatie attending the funeral of Mrs. S. A. Conine, who has been a friend of the family for many years, and a former member of the Old Chatham Methodist Church, being baptized and received into the church by the Rev. Mr. Barringer while he served as pastor of that charge. The Rev. and Mrs. Barringer had visited with Mrs. Conine only last week on New Year's Day.

Church school next Sunday morning will be at 10 o'clock. Morning divine worship service will be at 11 o'clock with sermon by the pastor. Subject of sermon will be "Lost and Found." Subject of sermon for the children will be "The Book That Was Found."

Next week Tuesday evening will be the next regular meeting of the Community Circle to be held at the home of Elder and Mrs. Clarence Eckert. At this meeting will be the regular annual election of officers for 1941. All in the community are invited to attend these meetings.

At the Community Chapel in Allgerville next Sunday night the pastor will speak on "Light" after which there will be a candle light service. Special music is being arranged.

DOCTORS WARN FOLKS WHO ARE CONSTIPATED—

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO assist liver bile flow to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15c, 30c, 60c.

Baden-Powell Dies In Kenya Colony

Founded Boy, Girl Scouts and Worked for Peace; Visited U. S. in '37

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, Jan. 8 (P.)—Lord Baden-Powell, 83, a veteran soldier who spent the last 30 years of his life working for peace as the founder of the Boy Scout movement, died today at his home in Nyeri, Kenya Colony.

He had been in precarious health since last November, when he suffered a series of severe heart attacks.

A lineal descendant of the early American settler, John Smith, Lord Baden-Powell had visited the United States on numerous occasions—the last time in April, 1937, when he delivered a radio address to the Boy Scouts of the World from San Francisco.

He was a guest of President Roosevelt at the White House in July, 1935, while in Washington to inspect the site for the first national jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America.

Lord Baden-Powell founded the Boy Scouts in 1910, following his retirement from the British army, to "promote good citizenship in the rising generation" and to further peace through the advancement of international understanding.

He had resided in Nyeri since 1937, when a "tired heart" forced him to abandon his active life in London.

Although known best for his work with the Boy Scouts, Baden-Powell also founded the Girl Scouts, of which his widow is the British head.

In the aerial siege of Britain,

the Germans reported a Nazi com-west of Ireland this morning, blowing the vessel to pieces in three dive attacks.

Hitler's high command reported also that a lone German speed-and sank a 2,500-ton merchant-

In another attack, a Nazi scouting plane was said to have scored several hits on a ship of a British minesweeper flotilla in the North

Sea and left it in a "burning, sinking condition."

On the Greek-Italian war front,

the RAF command reported Brit-base.

Red Cross figures listed more

"Our planes torpedoed an enemy destroyer near Salum, Egypt," the Italian high command said.

The Fascist communiqué ac-knowledgeed an RAF raid on Tripoli, in western Libya, in which four were killed, 10 wounded.

On the Greek front, the Italians asserted, "heavy losses" were inflicted on counter-invasion troops from the Aegean kingdom and three Greek planes were reported shot down in flames.

The Greeks fought on toward the southwestern Albanian port of might be a smoke screen to divert adoption, but there were several items to which he desired to call attention. One was an item for insurance to cost $6,000. He said that the city could obtain similar insurance for half that amount.

The alderman contended that the county supervisors should afford the city some relief from the amount of county taxes it had to pay.

Last year, said Alderman Don-naruma, the city ended the year with a surplus of $39,000 according to the mayor's figures. If that was true the tax rate was $2 too high. "The same error may be made this year," he said "and the taxpayers called upon to pay more money than was needed to operate the government."

Citing the item for $18,000 in the budget to pay the city's contribution to the police and fire pension in the state fund, he said he had expected to read in the mayor's message something regarding what the entire cost to the city would be but only the item relating to the police and firemen had been mentioned.

"I believe that the city's share is going to prove shocking to the members of the council when it becomes known," he said.

Alderman Donnaruma said that he thought that this would be his

TEXT OF F. D. ROOSEVELT'S BUDGET MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Makes Plea For Total Defense

Points at 'Staggering Changes' in World Situation in Last Six Months

Washington, Jan. 8 (P)—The text of President Roosevelt's budget message to congress:

Budget message of the President to the Congress of the United States:

The budget of the United States government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, which I transmit herewith, is a reflection of a world at war. Carrying out the mandate of the people, the government has embarked on a program for the total defense of our democracy. This means warships, freighters, tanks, planes, and guns to protect us against aggression; and jobs, health, and security to strengthen the bulwarks of democracy. Our problem in the coming year is to combine these two objectives so as to protect our democracy against external pressure and internal slackness.

The threatening world situation forces us to build up land, sea, and air forces able to meet and master any contingency. It is dangerous to prepare for a little defense. It is safe only to prepare for total defense. Total defense means more weapons. It means an industrial capacity stepped up to produce all the material for defense with the greatest possible speed. It means people of health and stamina, conscious of their democratic rights and responsibilities. It means an economic and social system functioning smoothly and geared to high-speed performance. The defense budget, therefore, must go beyond the needs of the army and navy.

Defense Is Not Enough

It is not enough to defend our national existence. Democracy as a way of life is equally at stake. The ability of the democracies to employ their full resources of manpower and skill and plant has been challenged. We meet this challenge by maximum utilization of plant and manpower and by maintaining governmental services, social security, and aid to those suffering through no fault of their own. Only by maintaining all of these activities can we claim the effective use of resources which our democratic system is expected to yield, and thus justify the expenditures required for its defense.

The National Program

In this budget I am presenting a program for 1942, carefully worked out to combine these objectives. This program, including defense and non-defense activities, will cost about 17.5 billions of dollars. For the same period, we expect the largest national income for the nation as a whole and also the largest tax receipts.

In addition to, but essentially and rightly as a complement to this program, the time has come for immediate consideration of assuring the continuation of the flow of vitally necessary munitions to those nations which are defending themselves against attack and against the imposition of new forms of government upon them.

Such a complementary program would call for appropriations and contract authorizations over and above this budget. The sum of all these defense efforts should be geared to the productive capacity of this nation expanded to literally its utmost efforts.

The defense program and defense expenditures:

Sixty-two per cent of the expenditures proposed in this budget are for national defense. No one can predict the ultimate cost of a program that is still in development, for no one can define the future. When we recall the staggering changes in the world situation in the last six months, we realize how tentative all present estimates must be.

These expenditures must be seen as a part of a defense program stretching over several years. On the basis of the appropriations and authorizations enacted for national defense from June 1940 up to the present time, plus the recommendations for supplementary appropriations and authorizations for 1941 and the recommendations contained in this budget for 1942, we have a program of 28 billion dollars.

This is a vast sum, difficult to visualize in terms of work actually to be done. If we can prove that we are able to organize and execute such a gigantic program in a Democratic way, we shall have made a positive contribution in a world in which the workability of democracy is challenged.

This defense program is summarized below:

Appropriations, Authorizations, and Recommendations

(In millions of dollars)

Army ..... $13,704

Navy ..... 11,587

Expansion of industrial ..... 1,902

Other defense activities ..... 1,287

Total ..... $28,480

The army funds provide for the training and maintenance of a force of men increasing from 250,000 in June, 1939, to 1,400,000 in 1942, equipped with the most modern devices to motorized and mechanical warfare. The navy estimates continue the construction of our over-all navy and contemplate the doubling of naval personnel. There is provision for a great increase in the number of army and navy planes and for training pilots, technicians, and ground crews.

Behind the lines a whole new defense industry is being built with the financial support of the federal government. One hundred and twenty-five new plants are under contract; more are planned.

In submitting these recommendations, I have not covered the full requirements of the civilian training program. At present surveys are under way which will provide a basis for transmitting an estimate of funds needed for the extension of this essential defense activity. In the current fiscal year, over a million men and women are included in the various programs of apprentice training, vocational training in trade schools and engineering colleges, work-experience shops, and pilot training.

Expenditures under the defense program during the last six months amount to 1,750 million dollars. This is two and one-half times the amount spent for national defense in the same period of the fiscal year 1940. However, these expenditures understate the progress already made. In six months, contracts and orders for 10 billion dollars have been placed. This means that in addition to present defense production, all over the country more factories, large and small, are getting ready rapidly to increase production. Once these preparations have been completed actual deliveries and expenditures will be greatly accelerated.

I expect actual expenditures to be stepped up to four and three-quarter billion dollars in the six months ending June 1941 and to almost 11 billion in the fiscal year 1942. We shall actually expend more than 25 billion dollars for defense within a 3-year period. This can be accomplished, but only if management, labor, and consumers cooperate to the utmost.

Non-Defense Expenditures

The increased military expenditures permit a substantial reduction in non-defense expenditures, particularly for those activities which are made less necessary by improved economic conditions. Obligations such as interest, pensions, and insurance benefits are fixed. Almost as fixed are the appropriations for which the congress has already made legislative commitments—security grants to the states, federal aid for highways, the 30 per cent of tariff revenue set aside for reducing agricultural surpluses, and similar items. Together, these fixed items make up nearly half of the non-defense expenditures I am proposing for the fiscal year 1942. For the items subject to administrative rather than legislative action, I have been able to reduce expenditures by 600 million dollars or 15 per cent. This reduction and its relation to total expenditures are shown below:

Estimated in Millions of Dollars
	1942	1941	Pct. chg.
Defense program	$10,811	$6,464	Plus 67
Fixed commitments	3,196	2,984	Plus 7
Other activities	3,478	4,094	Min. 15
Total (excluding returns from gov't corp.)	17,485	13,542	Plus 29

Certain reductions are possible in carrying out the established policies relating to public works and relief, but little change can be made in the regular operating costs of government. As I indicated in my budget message last year, the operating costs of the regular departments are already down to the bedrock of the activities and functions ordered by the congress. In spite of the defense pressure on many of these regular programs, expenditures will be kept below the level of the current year.

Social and Economic Programs

It is our policy to retain the ideals and objectives of our social and economic programs in the face of war changes. The costs of those programs affected by economic activity are flexible. Because of the defense effort some of these programs can be carried on at a lower cost. In other cases, no curtailment is possible without sacrificing our objectives.

We should realize, however, that even with a fully functioning defense effort there will remain special areas of need and that social security, agricultural benefits, and work relief contribute to total defense in terms of the health and morale of our people.

Social Security Problems—I recommend the continuance in full measure of the social security programs. This includes not only the payment of old-age benefits as required by law but also aid to youth and continued payments toward the state aid of old persons not covered by the insurance benefits; aids to children and to the physically handicapped. In total, these services will require approximately the same expenditure as in the current fiscal year, except for some increase in grants to the states as required by law.

Furthermore, I deem it vital that the Congress give consideration to the inclusion in the old-age and survivors insurance system and the unemployment system of workers not now covered.

Agricultural Programs—The increased domestic market for farm products, resulting from defense expenditure, will improve the income position of many farmers. At the same time the curtailment of foreign markets, particularly in cotton, wheat and tobacco, would leave large numbers of these farmers in a serious plight without the continuance of the farm programs. After weighing both of these factors, I estimate a reduction of 45 million dollars in the agricultural programs. We are definitely maintaining the principle of parity and soil conservation.

Public Works—During this period of national emergency it seems appropriate to defer construction projects that interfere with the defense program by diverting manpower and materials. Further, it is very wise for us to establish a reservoir of post-defense projects to help absorb labor that later will be released by defense industry.

With this in mind, I am recommending reductions for rivers and harbors and flood-control work. Where possible, without placing the project in jeopardy, reductions are proposed in the expenditures for reclamation projects. I have requested that further contracts for the construction of public buildings outside the District of Columbia be held in abeyance for the present. On the other hand, I have recommended funds for power and other projects considered essential to national defense.

Projects under construction, on which bids have been solicited, will go forward to completion. Throughout the federal service other projects are being deferred until a more appropriate time. However, surveys and the planning of new projects will go forward so that construction can be resumed without delay. This will produce a long list of public work projects, apart from defense construction, arranged according to priorities. Such a list could be submitted to a future Congress for the appropriation of funds to put it into operation.

Work Projects Administration—The defense program has already resulted in a substantial increase in production, employment and national income. Although industrial production is now running 20 per cent above the average level of 1929, there are still many persons either unemployed, or employed as emergency workers, or incapable of steady employment.

The defense program will lead to further re-employment, and also to a further increase in the labor force and to a shift from part-time to full-time or over-time employment. It is even under the full defense program we cannot expect full absorption of the labor force because some people just cannot be fitted into the picture. There will be some localities with a labor shortage at the same time that others have a labor surplus. There will be shortages of particular skills and aptitudes at the same time that others are in surplus.

I recommend an appropriation of 995 million dollars for work relief for the full fiscal year. This is 400 million dollars less than the amount required for the present fiscal year. It will not be necessary to use this full amount if the defense program should result in a more general re-employment than is presently indicated. The expenditure can also be reduced if employers will contribute by hiring, unskilled or semi-skilled or older workers for those jobs where special skills are not required.

We must face the fact that even with what we call "full employment" there will remain a large number of persons who cannot be adjusted to our industrial life. For this group, the government must provide work opportunities.

Financing the National Program—Estimated of expenditures and Revenue Compared—The defense program dominates not only the expenditure side of the budget, but influences also the expected revenue. Economic activities and national income are rising to record heights. From a higher national income a greater revenue will flow, although in the case of most taxes there is, of course, a time lag. The revenue for the fiscal year 1941 will reflect some of the increase in defense activities; the revenue for the fiscal year 1942 will be affected to a larger extent; but the full impact will not be felt before the fiscal year 1943.

The revenue for the fiscal year 1942 is expected to be nine billion dollars. It will exceed the revenue collected in the fiscal year 1940—the last year before the start of the present defense program—by three billion dollars. One-half of this increase will come from the defense taxes already enacted by the Congress, the other half from the increase in national income.

The revenue expected for 1942 will be 1.6 billions larger than the total of all nondefense expenditures. This 1.6 billions is greater than the annual expenditure on defense before the present program started, but less than will be necessary for maintaining the army and navy at the new level.

Estimates of receipts for 1942 and 1941 are set forth below:

Receipts

Estimated in Millions of Dollars

1942 1941 Pct. chg.

Progressive taxes on individuals and estates ..... $1,979 $1,571 Inc. 26

Profit and capital taxes on corporations ..... 2,839 1,745 Inc. 63

Customs, excise, stamp, and miscellaneous taxes ..... 2,756 2,657 Inc. 4

Employment taxes for federal old-age and survivors insurance ..... 725 668 Inc. 9

Other employment taxes ..... 243 230 Inc. 6

Miscellaneous receipts (including back income taxes) ..... 429 422 Inc. 2

Total receipts excluding returns from government corporations ..... 8,971 7,293 Inc. 23

Deduct net appropriation for federal old-age and survivors insurance fund ..... 696 640 Inc. 9

Net receipts excluding returns from government corporations ..... 8,275 6,653 Inc. 24

Under present tax laws, deficits of 6.2 billion dollars in 1941 and 9.2 billion dollars in 1942 may be expected. The calculations follow:

Estimated in Millions of Dollars

Summary

Expenditures ..... 1942 1941

Receipts ..... $17,458 $13,542

Excess of expenditures over receipts ..... 2,210 6,889

Less return of surplus funds from government corporations ..... 920 709

Deficit ..... 920 6,189

In presenting the above calculations, I am assuming that the Congress will accept the recommendation of the secretary of the treasury that the earmarking of taxes for retirement of defense obligations be repealed; and the proposal of the postmaster general that the three-cent rate on first-class postage be continued.

Tax policy—There is no agreement on how much of such an extraordinary defense program should be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis and how much by borrowing. Only very drastic and restrictive taxation which curtails consumption would finance defense wholly on a pay-as-you-go basis. I fear that such taxation would interfere with the full use of our productive capacities. We have a choice between restrictive tax measures applied to the present national income and a higher tax yield from increased national income under less restrictive tax measures. I suggest, therefore, a financial policy aimed at collecting progressive taxes out of a higher level of nationwide income. I am opposed to a tax policy which restricts general consumption as long as unused capacity is available and as long as idle labor can be employed.

We cannot yet conceive the complete measure of extraordinary taxes which are necessary to pay off the cost of emergency defense and to aid in avoiding inflationary price rises which may occur when full capacity is approached.

However, a start should be made this year to meet a larger percentage of defense payments from current tax receipts. The additional tax measures should be based on the principle of ability to pay. Because it is the fixed policy of the government that no citizen should make any abnormal net profit out of national defense, I am not satisfied that existing laws are in this respect adequate.

I hope that action toward these ends will be taken at this session of the Congress.

I see many ways in which our tax system can be improved without resort to restrictive tax levies. By adjustments in the existing tax laws the present rates of progressive taxation could be made fully effective, as I believe the Congress intended.

We must face the fact that the continued maintenance of an expanded army and navy and the interest on our defense debt will call for large federal expenditures in the years ahead. Our tax system must be made ready to meet these requirements.

I am as much concerned about our long-run need for an improved tax system as I am about the immediate necessity of financing the defense program.

I have often expressed my belief that no really satisfactory tax reform can be achieved without readjusting the federal-state-local fiscal relationship. I urge a thorough investigation of the possibilities of a comprehensive tax reform; I propose that meanwhile we make all possible progress in improving the federal tax system.

Borrowing—A substantial part of the defense program must, of course, be financed through borrowing. Individual investors will be given increased opportunities to contribute their share toward defense through the purchase of government securities. Such borrowing is not hazardous as long as it is accompanied by tax measures which assure a sufficient tax yield in the future. This raises the question of the debt limit. The congress, by making appropriations and levying taxes, in fact, controls the size of the debt regardless of the existence of a statutory debt limit. If the congress, subsequent to the establishment of the statutory debt limit, makes appropriations and authorizations which require borrowing in excess of that limit, it has, in effect, rendered that prior limit null and void. In the first 130 years of our national life, the congress controlled the debt successfully without requiring such a limit. In view of these facts, I question the significance of a statutory debt limit, except as it serves as a fiscal monitor.

The fiscal policy outlined here would be in accord with our objective of financing the defense program in an equitable manner, facilitating full use of our national resources, and avoiding inflationary policies which would aggravate the problems of post-defense adjustment.

The Debt Problem—For more than 25 years the world has been in a state of political turmoil and its economies have been out of balance. This world condition is reflected in unbalanced budgets in all countries. Here, the first World War, the war against the depression, the present defense program, all resulted in large additions to the federal debt.

I understand the concern of those who are disturbed by the growth of the federal debt. Yet the main fiscal problem is not the rise of the debt, but the rise of debt charges in relation to the development of our resources.

The fight for recovery raised national income by more than 30 billion dollars above the depression depth. In the same period the total annual federal interest charges increased by 400 million dollars. Even if these interest charges increase, they can scarcely present a serious fiscal problem so long as a high level of national income can be maintained.

Investors are fully aware of this fact. The bonds of the United States government are the safest securities in the world because they are backed by the best asset in the world—the productive capacity of the American people. Our tax burden is still moderate compared to that of most other countries.

It should be borne in mind that our national debt results from wars and the economic upheavals following war. These conditions are not of our own making. They have been forced upon us. The national debt of almost all nations would be far lower today if competitive armaments had not existed during the past quarter of a century. If this war should be followed, as I hope it will, by peace in a world of good neighbors, then the complete elimination of competitive armaments will become possible. Only in such a world can economic stability be restored.

If a high level of economic activity can be maintained during the defense period and what will be a more difficult task—maintaining in the post-defense period, then the fiscal needs can be met.

The budget of the United States presents our national program. It is a preview of our work plan, a forecast of things to come. It charts the course of the nation.

The necessity for loading the present budget with armament expenditures is regretted by every American. A very turn of fate places this burden of defense on the backs of a peace-loving people.

We can meet the demands of armament because we are a people with the will to defend and the means to defend. The boundaries of our productive capacity have never been set.

The whole program set forth in this budget has been prepared at a time when no man could see all the signposts ahead. One marker alone stands out all down the road. That marker carries not so much an admonition as a command to defend our democratic way of life.

Christmas was celebrated in the usual big way. Each room was resplendent with tinsel, bells, etc. The day before Christmas, the Mothers' Club came up and treated the teachers and pupils with homemade cake and ice cream. The children in turn entertained the mothers with songs, poems, pantomimes, and a play.

All had their pictures taken again this month. Several of last year's graduating class visited the school after their vacation started. The Mothers' Club took two

Claim of $3,000

Filed by Woman

For Fall on Ice

A claim for $3,000 against the city for alleged injuries suffered in a fall on the ice on Spring street on November 28, 1940, was filed with the Common Council Tuesday evening by Carrie Lindsey of 126 Broadway through her attorney, Joseph H. Forman.

The claim was referred to the corporation counsel and the auditing committee of the council.

A claim to cover a plumbing bill for $49.44 for installing a new water service at his home, 156 Downs street, was filed by Sherman H. Low. He claimed his water service had been damaged when the city installed a new water service in that street. It was referred to the corporation counsel and the auditing committee.

The boardmen approved a renewal of the lease of the building at 97 Broadway used by the National Youth Administration at a rental of $300 a year.

Magic Spring

By ALLEN EPPES

YESTERDAY, Polly and David had set the day for their marriage, because David was at last rid of the last of his dependent relatives, and Polly's Aunt Susan was not really much of a problem. But David went home the day he proposed, and sitting on his front step was little Peter Wiley, his 9-year-old cousin from Pennsylvania. And now Polly feels she and David had better postpone the wedding once more.

Chapter Seven

"JEALOUSY?" How do you mean?

"I mean he's so completely wrapped up in you," Polly explained, "he doesn't want to share you with anyone else."

"Nonsense!" "It's not nonsense, David. Children are funny, sometimes. They have notions just like the grown-ups."

"All right, well, wait a little longer. But not much longer," said David.

And now the second week had begun. "Miss Polly likes you a lot, Peter," David was saying to Peter, who had come down to have a look at the lumber plant. "She thinks you're a pretty swell boy."

"Does she?" said Peter somewhat vaguely. He stood sniffing the fascinating fragrance of freshly-sawn boards. "Gee, what a lot of lumber you got piled up down here!"

"You like her, don't you?" David went on persistently. "Oh, sure, she's all right—as girls go," said Peter.

David gave up. He decided not to go into the matter any further for the time being.

"Come on," he said. "I'll show you the rest of the place. We haven't much time. My lunch hour is nearly up. Then, as they stood eyeing a huge pile of sawdust, he said: "Did you fix yourself a good meal, Peter?"

"Sure, Cousin David," said Peter. "I ate those vegetables you told me to warm up. And I cooked an egg."

"You should have cooked two." "No, one was enough. I filled up on vegetables. They're better for boys, anyway."

"I think," said David, "that we ought to have a woman in the house. To cook for us, you know—look after the place."

"Shucks, Cousin David," said Peter. "We can get along. It's fun being bachelors together."

"Okay," said David. While in Ye Old Southern Tea Room, Polly was busy making change. Business was good now that a number of men had gotten into the habit of coming to the tearoom for the noonday meal. She had little idle time on her hands.

"Hello, Pollykins!" said a cheerful masculine voice. "I think you remember my daughter."

Polly looked up. Mr. Powers was smiling at her, and with him was Margo. "Oh, yes," she said. "Of course I do. How do you do, Margo? It's nice having you back."

"Hello," said Margo. She looked around her, and laughed. "Imagine my great big, thoroughly masculine father eating in such a feminine atmosphere."

"It's the food I like," said Mr. Powers. "And it always does me good to exchange a few words with Polly. I hope you two girls get to be good friends." He gave Polly another one of his wale-poly smiles. "Margo's been away so long," he added, "she's sort of out of touch with the Ardendale folk."

Inspection AND, thought Polly, not especially anxious to get in touch with them. She looked at Margo again.

David was right. She certainly wasn't hard on the eyes. A bit too sophisticated, in manner as well as dress, perhaps—more suited to a New York cocktail lounge than an Ardendale tearoom—but certainly a beauty. A little on the Myrna Loy type, only taller. Cute little nose, amazingly lovely eyes, and hair that was titian and soft and naturally curly.

"Come on, Dad," said Margo. "Let's eat. I hope the food is all you've said it was. I'm hungry."

A colored waitress led them to a table suitable for two. "Polly's a little beauty, isn't she, Margo?" said Mr. Powers as they sat down. "Plucky little devil, too."

"I wouldn't exactly call her a beauty," said Margo. "But she is pretty—in a terribly feminine sort of way."

"What other way could she be pretty?" Mr. Powers chuckled. "Oh, I mean," said Margo, "that sometimes girls overdo their femininity."

"But let it pass," he father said. "But let it pass—He turned to the colored girl. "Bring us soup of that cream of mushroom soup, Sarah."

"Yes," said the waitress. "Ah, fried chicken!" Mr. Powers said, delighted. "We'll have that. And bring plenty of cornsticks. I've been telling my daughter that not in all Europe could she find anything as delicious as the cornsticks you serve here."

"Yes!" said the waitress. "The girl hurried away with the order. Mr. Powers leaned across the table, and took his daughter's hand in his.

"It's wonderful, Margo, having you home again," he said. "I sure have been a lonely man. All I could do was just work and wait. You're going to stay with me now, aren't you?"

"Of course, Dad!" said Margo. "For the summer—anyway."

"Good!" her father said. "I won't look beyond that. Meanwhile, be nice to Polly and David. They've had a pretty hard time of it during the years you were seeing the world. I'm fond of them both, and I want you to like them also."

"All right, Father, I'll do my best," Margo watched the waitress place their soup before them, and thought of David. How marvelous he had looked yesterday when she saw him standing on top of a pile of lumber—silhouetted against the sky! The wind playing with his hair, while he took some snapshots of the lumber yard. "Dad," she said.

"Yes, Margo?" said her father. "You want me to marry some day, don't you?"

"Of course," said Mr. Powers. But what brought that on?" "Oh, I don't know—I was just thinking," Margo tasted her soup. "There doesn't seem to be much husband material hereabouts. I'm always being introduced to an old maid."

"Don't let that bother you," said Mr. Powers. "A girl like you will never end up an old maid. Like the soup?"

"Yes, I do. It's delicious," Margo glanced over to where Polly was counting change. "Funny, Polly never married, especially when you think she's such a beauty."

"She'll marry, all right," Mr. Powers said. "And soon. Now that I've got David with me, he'll be able to make some money. He and Polly have had a hard time trying to live their own lives. I'm going to help them all I can."

There was a pucker between Margo's fine brows as she turned her attention to her lunch. Polly and David. Getting married. That meant that David Wiley would soon become just another small-town husband. He would never see the things she had seen, visit the places she had visited.

She again thought of him on a polo pony, dashing across a great expanse of green. Again she visualized him on a surf-board, being driven shoreward by a great gray-blue roller topped with a fringe of foam. What a man to show off she thought. Imagine taking David with her to all the gay and cool places she wanted to visit again.

Discouraged While in Ye Old Southern Tea Room, Polly was busy making change. Business was good now that a number of men had gotten into the habit of coming to the tearoom for the noonday meal. She had little idle time on her hands.

"Hello, Pollykins!" said a cheerful masculine voice. "I think you remember my daughter."

Today

I will start today serenely with a true and noble aim. I will give unselfish service to enrich another's name.

I will speak a word of courage to a soul enslaved by fear. I will dissipate drab discord with the sunshine of good cheer.

I will be sincere and humble in the work I have to do. I will praise instead of censure and see the good in you.

I will keep my mind and body sound and flexible and pure. I will give my time and study to the things that long endure.

I will do what I am able to advance a worthy cause. I will strive to lessen evil and obey God's righteous laws.

I will pray to Him to guide me in the straight and narrow way. I will shun false pride and folly. I will live my best today.

—Grenville Kleiser.

Officer (instructing the daily exercise)—Now, men, lie on your backs and work your feet as though you were on a bicycle.

One recruit stops. Officer—Why did you stop? Recruit—I'm coasting sir.

How to Get Along With People Be cheerful. Continue your work. Say less, think more. Keep the promises you make. Forget about any credit due you. Don't argue, keep an open mind. Carry no grudges around with you. Be genuinely interested in others. Prevent your tongue from skidding. Respect the other fellow's feelings. Be generous in your praise of work well done.

Counselor before saying something disparaging about others. Mother—Now, Junior, say 'Ah'; so the doctor can get his fist out of your mouth.

A wise man is like a straight pin. his head keeps him from going too far.

Lieutenant—What sort of golf does the Major play? General—The very worst I ever listened to.

Since the women started to keep diaries it isn't safe to say pretty things to them even by telephone.

On the air one night we heard the question, "What is the difference between a weasel and an easel?"

The reply: "A weasel is a little man, and an easel is something to sit on."

We'd rather stay home than go to a party and have to sit around listening to somebody tell the plot of a movie.

Jones was talking to some friend of a fishing trip he was contemplating on his holiday.

Friend—Are there any trout up there? Jones (enthusiastically)—Trout! Thousands of 'em.

Friend—Will they bite easily? Jones—Will they? Why, they're absolutely vicious! A man has to hide behind a tree to bait his hook.

This one is for women only: Mrs. Weeps—I always feel lots better after a good cry.

Mrs. Ditto—So do I. It sort of gets things out of your system. Mrs. Weeps—No, it doesn't get anything out of my system, but it does get things out of my husband.

Information: Minerva, her owls and the two bell ringers, known as Stuff and Guff, now on a monument in Herald square, stood atop the vanished Herald building from 1895 to 1921 when they went into retirement at New York university.

Stuff and Guff don't actually pound out the hours.

Their hammers stop within three inches of the bell.

The owls blink 18 times an hour.

It used to take from two to three hours to wind the clock.

Now it's done automatically.

The clock seems to strike louder than it did 20 years ago.

That's not due to increased power but to the fact that the Sixth avenue elevated and trolley cars are no longer competitors in sound effects.

Honest Debtor Scores One for Human Nature

NORFOLK, NEB.—The postman brought L. M. Beeler a short sermon on human nature.

Beeler and his brother sold their store here 24 years ago after being in business a quarter of a century and the unsigned note harked back to those days.

It said: "To Beeler Bros.: Please accept $3, a belated honest debt. Thank you."

Bomb May Go Boom; This Makes It a Bum

Police Superintendent Charles A. Wheeler of Bridgeport, Conn., has invented a "bomb taxi" to haul suspicious packages out to the open spaces.

It's made out of an old water boiler.

"As far as I am aware," he says, "in other cities police have to cart bombs in their laps to an empty lot to be exploded."

In a test, the only damage was to paper sand bags on the bottom of the tank.

There is no bomb in it.

New Order in Court

Columbia, S. C.—A change in a city bus schedule has altered the time of the daily opening of Richmond county court.

Judge A. W. Holman explained to jurors that court usually opened at 9:30 a. m.

"But the bus schedule out my way has changed, and the court opens now at 9:40."

Gourmet

Bristol, Conn.—"How about a plate of beans on the house, bud?" asked a stranger who drifted into a Main street restaurant.

Courtemanager James Parsons, who likes to be a good guy, found the chef was out of beans, and passed the stranger a bowl of soup.

"I asked for beans, not soup," he said, stalking out into the cold night.

Skeptical

Dallas—"What's the hurry?" asked Policeman L. O. Jones of a motorist who ran a stop sign.

"I was trying to catch the car ahead to tell that fellow his tail light wasn't burning," the motorist replied.

He got a ticket.

Spare a Dime?

Los Angeles—Ralph Rosenbaum, 40, a quick-tongued auctioneer, told police a man accosted him demanding "gimme your dough."

"Shucks, I'm broke and was going to ask you for a dime," Rosenbaum countered.

The holdup man handed over two dimes.

Old Tags—New Story

Danville, Ill.—On the lookout for motorists still driving around with 1940 license plates, police were taken aback not a little when they discovered an auto bearing tags of 1933 vintage.

Explained the car's owner: "I just purchased this machine second-hand and those old plates were still on. I tried hard, but I couldn't get 'em off."

Still Trying

Lincoln, Neb.—"I still want to get into the legislature some way," Ruth Zimmerman, 22, said with determination. But, came election and she was defeated.

New she's campaigning among unicameral members for the position her father held in the 1937 session—that of chaplain.

Taber Reports He Doesn't Trust President, and Calls Him Most Incompetent

Highlights From Budget Message Given by F. D. R.

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP)—Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) said today that he did "not trust" President Roosevelt and that the chief executive "will go down in history as the most incompetent administrator that this country has ever known."

Taber, ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee, issued his statement as a reply to remarks by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday that she was "astonished and saddened" because, she said, Republican members of congress had not applauded during the President's delivery of his annual message Monday.

"I think that that statement," Taber said, "entitles us to have an opportunity to tell why some of us did not applaud the president."

"The reason I did not applaud him was because I do not trust him. I have followed him twice and he has betrayed me."

The New Yorker asserted that he had been instrumental in getting through the economy act several years ago, but that the president "destroyed" it "by cutting the compensation of war-disabled veterans in many cases more than 50 per cent—and by contradictory policies, such as the AAA and the NRA."

He also "went along" on "enormous expenditures" for military purposes last spring and summer, Taber continued, and then saw the procurement of defense items "lag tremendously."

"Worse than all that," he added, "we have drafted and called into service a lot of boys who have been housed in tents in the winter-time in the north; they have not had proper clothing; they had not had proper medical attention."

"The construction of camps has lagged and the cost has piled up so that the construction of army camps has become one of the worst rackets that has ever existed in the American government."

Taber declared that at the urgent request of the army and navy he has consented to award of construction contracts on a cost-plus basis without advertisements or bids.

"The result," he asserted, "has been that the manner in which the operations have been carried on and the racketeering ensuing, and the desire of certain of the contractors not to 'kill the job' has delayed by from three to six months the completion of the cantonments which have been authorized."

"Mr. Roosevelt will go down in history as the most incompetent administrator that this country has ever known."

This arsenal in America adequate to the successful defense of democracy and freedom."

Broadest Powers

The President's order creating the agency gave the four the broadest executive powers, including authority to "formulate and execute in the public interest all measures needful and appropriate in order to increase, accelerate, and regulate the production and supply of materials, articles and equipment and the provision of emergency plant facilities and services required for the national defense."

That power is sufficient, Mr. Roosevelt said, to permit them to commandeer the plants of ram-bunctious manufacturers.

Although the board is an adjunct of the presidency, Mr. Roosevelt said the members would come to him for a final decision only in case of a policy disagreement. He added that he expected such instances to be rare.

The existing national defense advisory commission of seven members, including Knudsen and Hillman, the latter as labor member, will continue to function as before, the President said, with some personnel shifts to complete the new set-up.

The O.P.M. will have three administrative divisions—production, headed by John Biggers, Ohio glass manufacturer who has been an assistant to Knudsen; purchases, headed by Donald M. Nelson, a Sears, Roebuck official and former priorities administrator; and priorities, headed by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

In place of the existing four-man priorities board, a new board of six was named by Stettinius, with Nelson, Leon Henderson, commission price expert, and another yet to be appointed, as full members, and Knudsen and Hillman as ex-officio members.

'Symptoms' Bring Trouble to Man After Knowledge

Seeking to enlarge his medical knowledge led to the arrest of Fred Moore, 46, of Chelsea, Mass., on a charge of disorderly conduct on Tuesday afternoon. Moore was entering the offices of busy physicians that day seeking to ascertain the symptoms of cancer and leprosy.

This morning in police court Moore informed Judge Matthew V. Cahill that he had had a few drinks yesterday and then decided to enlarge his medical knowledge by ascertaining the difference between cancer and leprosy.

"Have you either disease?" asked the court.

"No," replied Moore, "but I thought it would be a good idea to know what the symptoms were."

Judge Cahill suspended the serving of any sentence provided Moore left the city within an hour.

Lehman Pleads For Defense Laws

Court jurisdiction to stay mortgage foreclosures on property of persons in military service, suspension, in certain cases, of their life insurance payments, and deferment of tax collections on their income if necessary.

Modification of unemployment insurance and Workmen's Compensation laws to protect benefits to workers resuming employment after a year's military duty.

Revised Election Law

Revision of the Election Law to permit men at military camps to vote by absentee ballot.

Strengthening of the police mobilization plan to permit city, village and town police to mobilize quickly in an emergency.

Regulation of the manufacture, sale, distribution, use and possession of explosives against "the technique of treachery and sabotage."

The Democratic executive's ninth annual message—reflecting the longest continuous service of any New York governor in a century and a quarter—was delivered to the most dominant Republican legislative majority in recent years.

But the governor recalled that in numerous conferences with the Republican leaders on a defense program they had been "in complete agreement on all major policies."

"Today the American way of life is threatened," he said. "Its very foundations—justice, tolerance and liberty, are challenged. Today we are preparing America, not only against the danger of conquest but also to assure peace in America."

Subversive Activities

In an effort to thwart subversive activities, the governor urged legislation enabling speedy mobilization of police forces as a means of aiding federal investigation and prosecution of espionage and sabotage.

He said the numerical strength of police forces in the state is slightly more than 30,000, of which two-thirds are within New York city. It is obvious, he added, that acting independently they would be unable to cope with "grave emergencies" without additional resources.

Accordingly, he recommended legislation giving these police units the same authority they have now in their own localities when they are called elsewhere in an emergency.

"To acquire the total preparedness necessary in the world today," the governor maintained, "we must strengthen our defenses against enemies within as well as against attacks from outside our borders."

"The aggressor nations have developed and used with deadly effect the technique of treachery and sabotage. We have witnessed the horrible results of such attacks in many countries in Europe. It is our duty to insure that no such methods will succeed in this country."

Asks Anti-Sabotage Laws

To "oppose vigorously" subversive elements, the governor asked approval of stage anti-sabotage laws providing the punishment for violators and regulation of high-way near defense activities as power projects and FBI surveillance of saboteurs.

Of the $10,811,314,600 allotted by the President for defense in the next fiscal year, $3,447,394,000 went to the navy, $5,956,600,000 to the army, $407,320,000 to scattered agencies including the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and $1,000,000,000 was left blank for future allotment.

Mr. Roosevelt visualized a program necessitating the sale of government securities on a scale possibly rivaling the World War days when "four minute speakers" interrupted theatre programs to sell Liberty bonds.

Might Be Unpatriotic

Failure of financially able persons to buy bonds, he told reporters, might, in fact, be considered unpatriotic.

The anticipated federal debt of $38,367,065,056—it was $16,185,308,000 when the annual deficits started in 1931 and now stands at $45,000,000,000—would require raising the present limit of $49,000,000,000.

Congress might want to set a new limit as a "fiscal monitor," the President said, but "I question the significance of a statutory debt limit." Congress, he explained, can automatically regulate the debt by limiting appropriations.

The big question mark left by the President was how much more money would be needed for the United States to buy airplanes and other weapons and "lend" them to "democracies" abroad resisting the "aggressors." British already have submitted a detailed list for $3,000,000,000 worth and some officials have put the ultimate cost as high as $10,000,000,000.

Seven Arrested at Esopus Are Given 30 Days Each

Seven men charged with vagrancy, held at the Esopus R. R. station by Sergeant Schoonmaker of the R. R. Police, were brought to the Ulster county jail this noon by Deputy Vredenburg, Brown, O'Brien and Reynolds to serve sentences of 30 days each imposed by Justice John O. Beaver.

Two of the men, Joseph Brown, 45, and John Reilly, 38, gave New York city addresses. The others, who said that they had no homes, are John W. Miller, 43, Anthony Molloy, 41, John Conley, 53, James Ward, 59, and William Riley, 63.

The officers learned that the men had been in the vicinity for some time, helping themselves to wood and otherwise making themselves at home.

It was discovered that the summer home of Mrs. Dumont had been entered and badly damaged. Partitions had been used for firewood, windows were broken and the place generally more or less of a wreck.

Rosary Society Meets

Strong Demand By Dealers For New Automobiles

President Roosevelt yesterday, by executive and administrative orders, set up the projected White House office of production management for national defense. He named William S. Knudsen, former head of General Motors, as director general and Sidney Hillman, CIO vice chairman, as associate director. The two men are given virtually all the executive authority the President could delegate on the business side of national defense. The existing national defense advisory commission will continue in an advisory role.

A strong demand by dealers for new automobiles is reported and it now appears that January assemblies in United States and Canadian plants may approximate 475,000 units—12 per cent more than earlier indications and nearly six per cent above the January peak set last year. In addition to a strong January retail demand, retailers are said to be building up floor stocks as a protection against possible shortage later because of the defense program.

Yesterday the Michigan unemployment compensation commission forecast a likely shortage of factory workers in Detroit area when 1941 manufacturing reaches its peak.

The defense commission has asked dealers in iron and steel scrap at Pittsburgh to take voluntary action that will result in a top price of $20 a ton for No. 1 scrap. Current prices are several dollars a ton higher than this. Chairman Weir of National Steel says that scrap prices are higher than is justified and that unless a reduction is effected the prices of finished products must be raised.

Support for the report that the British government is looking toward possible placement of all its remaining holdings of American securities with one of the U. S. agencies was given yesterday when it was learned that the sale of at least one good-sized block of British-owned stock, headed for market, had been called off.

Earnings of Hercules Powder Co. for 1940 are estimated at a new high of $3.90 to $4 a common share.

Federal Reserve Board estimates that December industrial production reached a record high of 136 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

With lessened volume, total being 525,540 shares, stocks moved narrowly and uncertainly Tuesday and closed mixed, with steels and coppers closing lower. In the Dow-Jones averages the 30 industrials had a net gain of 19 point, closing at 133.02, best level of the day, and utilities advanced .02, to 20.07. Rails closed off .01, to 28.39. Commodities also were mixed, with the index off slightly. Cotton advanced five to ten points on strong demand, but wheat drifted lower after early firmness and closed 1/2 to 3/4 cent a bushel lower. Spot sugar dropped a point, to 2.90 cents a pound. Wool top futures dropped as much as three cents a pound, but recovered a large share of the loss.

A record output of 152,000,000 pairs of shoes in 1941 is forecast for the New England shoe industry.

December sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. were the largest of any month in the company's history and 16.3 per cent above a year ago. Montgomery Ward also had a record month, reflecting heavy Christmas buying at retail stores.

Senate Continues Education Probe

Resolution Becomes Initial Business of New Legislative Body

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8 (AP)—New York's senate adopted unanimously today the resolution continuing a joint legislative committee investigating the state's education system, including alleged subversive activities in New York city schools.

The resolution, first business of the 1941 legislature, was voted before senate and assembly met in joint session to hear Gov. Lehman's annual message. It went to the assembly for expected early concurrence.

Republican Senator Frederic R. Coudert, directing the New York city inquiry, introduced the proposal with the assertion "a group of public employees have defied the authority of the legislature and frustrated and impeded the work of the committee by resorting to every form of dilatory, legal proceeding."

The court of appeals, highest state tribunal, yesterday granted the New York city teachers union the right to appeal Supreme court decisions which cited its president for contempt of the committee.

Rayburn Reports Progress in Plan To Help Nations

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn reported after a conference with Secretaries Hull and Morgenthau today that "progress is being made" in forming a plan for expanded aid to Britain and hinted that legislation involved might be considered by house and senate at the same time.

Other sources, including Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) said an extra $10,000,000,000 armament program was under study.

"There's going to be just a little time lost as possible," Rayburn said.

"The house is going to consider it with all expedition because it is vitally essential that we aid the democracies speed is of the essence."

Rayburn asserted that he had not discussed with senate leaders whether they would take up the legislation at the same time as the house but added there was no reason why it could not be done.

Rosenthal Will Move Store to New Location

William Rosenthal who for several years past has conducted a ladies shop at 304 Wall street, on February 1 will move his business to the Schultz building on Fair street adjoining the Wiltwyck fire station. At his new location, 261 Fair street, Mr. Rosenthal will have larger quarters.

The building on Fair street was for many years occupied by the Schultz and Bogart real estate and insurance business. Alterations will be made to the property. Mr. Rosenthal is now conducting a removal sale at his store on Wall street preparatory to moving to his new location.

Prior to opening his present store on Wall street Mr. Rosenthal conducted a store at 275 Fair street.

Charles Gruenewald was re-elected president and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was reappointed clerk at the annual meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners held Tuesday evening at the Central Fire Station.

At the regular meeting of the board later in the month it is expected that the board will ask the local civil service board to furnish it with an eligible list from which the board may appoint three paid firemen.

Former Mayor Dies At Poughkeepsie

George V. L. Spratt, 67, Is Victim of Heart Attack

Former Mayor George V. L. Spratt, 67, died suddenly of a heart attack in his law office in the Law Library building, Market street, Poughkeepsie, Tuesday afternoon. He had served the Bridge City as its head for three terms until January 1, 1940.

Mr. Spratt was widely known throughout the Hudson river valley. He served Poughkeepsie as city judge some years ago and was elected mayor on the Democratic ticket in November, 1933.

He was a candidate for a fourth term but was defeated in November, 1939, by William Schrauth, a boyhood friend, in one of the largest political upsets in Poughkeepsie in some years.

Mr. Spratt at the time of his death was serving as state transfer tax appraiser. He was unanimously nominated for president of the Dutchess County Bar in December and was to have been elected at the annual meeting this month.

Deeply interested in music Mr. Spratt was president of the Euterpe Glee Club. He was also a member of the board of directors of Vassar Bank, of the Germania Singing Society and of the Young American Hose Company.

For years he was a personal friend of President Roosevelt.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen Foster Spratt; and a brother, Daniel R. Spratt, who is connected with the state finance and tax department. Funeral services will be held from the home, 296 Fair street, at 9:30 o'clock and St. Peter's Church at 10:30 o'clock.

Woman Is Found Dead on Farm On Rosendale Road

Mrs. Amsher, an elderly woman who raised goats and dogs for a living, was found lying unconscious on the porch of her home on the old Abernethy farm on the Rosendale road, about a mile from the Walkkill Valley railroad crossing at the city line. The sheriff's office was notified and when deputies reached the house they found she had died.

Death is thought due to a heart attack. Mrs. Amsher resided alone. She was discovered on the porch of her home early this afternoon by the milkman who had gone to the house. He immediately notified Benedict Salerno, a real estate dealer, who called the sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriffs Clayton Vredenburg and Arthur Brown were sent to the house and found her dead on their arrival. They were still there at the time The Freeman went to press.

From what could be learned Mrs. Amsher had been in ill health for some time and was under the care of Dr. William S. Bush of this city. Yesterday she had come to Kingston on business and returned home on the 4 o'clock bus that afternoon.

When the deputy sheriffs reached the house this afternoon they found food cooking on the stove and she had evidently been preparing a meal when stricken.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Samuel Blum was held from the Jensen & Deegan Funeral Home yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was largely attended by his many relatives and friends. Owing to the illness of Rabbi Herbert Bloom the services were conducted by Rabbi Harold Maratek, of Congregation Abathav Israel. Burial was in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Clarence Dargan, 24, died in the Memorial Hospital in Catskill on Tuesday, from the results of inhaling monoxide gas while at work in the Thorp Garage in Tannersville where he was employed as a mechanic. The young man, son of Mrs. Mary Dargan and the late Daniel Dargan of Jane street, Saugerties, was working under a car on January 6, when he was discovered by fellow workmen lying unconscious. He was brought to the Catskill hospital for treatment, but failed to rally. He is survived by his wife and three children, one an infant born last Friday; his mother, and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Mellon of Iliac and the Misses Lillian and Julia Dargan, both of Saugerties.

Charles Henry DuVal, former Middletown, died Monday at his home. The deceased served two terms as alderman about a quarter of a century ago and was a member of Walkkill Council, J. O. U. A. M. and Awosting Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Ellenville. He is survived by his wife, the former Hattie A. Smith and five children, E. Collier of Binghamton, Mrs. Jennie D. Decker, Miss Hazel S. DuVal, Floyd S. and Raymond C. DuVal, all of Middletown; also two sisters, Mrs. Charles Rider of Irvington, Calif., and Mrs. Jacob Keator of Fitchville. Funeral services will be held at Hasbrouck's Chapel Thursday at 1:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Harold C. DeWindt officiating. Burial will be in the family plot, Faintekill Cemetery, Ellenville. Services will be conducted at the grave at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Donald Spencer.

A CRISP, BECOMING HOUSEFROCK

Marian Martin
PATTERN 9593

Pick of the new crop of cotton frocks is this attractive mode for a mature woman. For Marian Martin has given Pattern 9593 effortlessly slenderizing, well-proportioned lines. The skirt is panelled at both front and back for a tall-and-slim effect. The softly rounded revers are as flattering as a collar but much more comfortable to wear; they may be of same fabric as the dress or in crisp contrast, as shown. You might match the revers with tiny sleeve tabs, and add a froth of ruffling or a colorful border of rick-rack. A smart extra touch may be given by novelty "hanky" pockets that "break-up" your width-across. Choose a flower-sprinkled print for this simple, becoming style.

Pattern 9593 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 1/4 yards 35 inch fabric, 1/2 yard contrast and 2 1/2 yards ruffling.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Here's a clever idea! Women who haven't "perfect figures" (and not many of us have), may now be sure of having their smart MARIAN MARTIN frocks fit perfectly! The secret? Just order our SURFIT FOUNDATION PATTERN 9306 in your size, adjust it to your own figure measurements in tissue, cut it out in muslin—and you have a permanent guide to use when making all your frocks. You pin your dress patterns right to it to make necessary changes. Send for Pattern 9306 today! Designed for sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 50. Size 16 requires 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

EMILY POST REQUESTS READERS OF HER COLUMN NOT TO ASK ARMY OR NAVY QUESTIONS BUT ANSWERS ONE

Soldier With Side Arms Keeps on His Hat but Soldier Has No Business Dancing With Side Arms

Dear Readers: The whole subject of army and navy customs, traditions and usage is outside the province of this column. Even though of course I can understand why you ask me an occasional question like the one which immediately follows—which does seem to touch closely on everyday manners—nevertheless I must ask you in future to ask all such questions of persons in the service. The answer to this one question today I happen to know and am printing it in order to make this announcement.

The Question Is: I went to a dance lately at which several soldiers kept on their hats while dancing. Some of us argued about the propriety of their doing this. On my side were those who felt that soldier or no soldier, a man ought to take off his hat at a time like this, and on the other side were those who felt that a man in uniform has different rules to go by.

Answer: As long as a soldier wears his side arms—meaning sword or pistol—he does not take off his hat. But a soldier has no business dancing with side arms on and therefore side arms and hats both should have been removed.

The "Bride" at her Anniversary Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I feel that it would be proper for mother, who is to celebrate her 50th wedding anniversary, to wear a dinner dress. After all, she is the "lady of the hour." We feel, however, that the invitations should include "informal" because of certain groups who are being invited who never dress except in best day clothes. And as several hundred people are coming, mother says that if we tell others not to dress, it isn't right if she or the others in her immediate family dress.

Answer: Certainly no one is going to resent having your mother's clothes outshine theirs on this special occasion, any more than they would have objected to her wearing a different dress at her wedding. She may wear a dress with a long skirt but of course under the circumstances it may be better not to choose anything too elaborate. I think the other women in the family might also wear dresses with long skirts; at least, I can't see that the length of the skirts matters very much if the dresses are otherwise simple. If you think none of the men will wear tuxedos, then a plain dark everyday suit would be best for the "groom" as well as other men in the family.

Bundles for Britain
To Benefit at Party

Plans have been completed for the Bundles for Britain card party to be held at the Ascension Church Parish House, West Park, Thursday evening, January 16. Playing will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Pinochle and bridge will be the feature games but anyone desiring to play their favorite games may do so, providing they bring their own games with them. There will also be a few Chinese checker boards available.

Tickets are now in the hands of 25 women whose names were previously printed and may be secured from them. Reservations may also be made by telephoning the chairman, Miss Beatrice Guilian, Ulster Park 85-J-1. Those planning to attend are requested to purchase tickets in advance or make reservations so that, in view of the large crowd anticipated, ample room may be provided for each table.

The committee is working hard to make this a social success as well as a financial one, in aiding this great cause of preserving the democracies of the world. The proceeds of the card party will be turned over to the local county committee's headquarters at 302 Fair street, Kingston.

DeMolay Plans Dance

Plans are being made for the annual winter dance of Colonial Order of DeMolay. The dance will be held Friday, January 31, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel and will be semi-formal. Johnny Michael's orchestra has been engaged for the music. Dancing will be from 9 o'clock until 12 o'clock. The committee in charge of the dance is composed of James E. Norton, William Burns, Jack Spader, Clyde Fulton and George Bushnell.

Hospital Ball Plans Being Made

Members of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary are meeting this week to formulate plans for the annual mid-winter ball. This dance, one of the outstanding social events of the season, will be held Saturday, February 1, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The Meyer-Davis orchestra which was received with such enthusiasm at last year's ball, has been engaged to furnish music for this year's affair.

Club Notices

Clinton Avenue W.C.S.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church will hold its regular monthly meeting in the Sunday school assembly rooms Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This is a "pledge service." All women of the church are invited to the meeting.

County Democratic Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Democratic Club of Ulster county will be held Monday, January 13, at 8 o'clock, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Plans are being made to secure a guest speaker for the meeting.

Junior Hadassah

Junior Hadassah will hold its annual paid-up membership banquet at Svirsky's Hotel in Ulster Park, Tuesday, January 14. All cars will meet at the Hebrew School, Post street, at 7:30 o'clock and will leave from there. This banquet is only for paid-up members. Any members not yet paid up and who still wish to attend, are asked to notify Mrs. B. Samuels, 3 Cedar street. Members desiring transportation are asked to notify Miss Gollup, president. The Jewish Youth Alliance will hold a stag dance at Huling's Barn Sunday evening, January 12, at 9 o'clock. Tickets are available from Miss Eleanor Adin, Miss Belle Black, David Dubin, David Levy, Adele Black and other members of the organization. Arnold Stanley's orchestra will play for the dancing.

Personal Notes

William Hutton and George V. D. Hutton, Jr., who have been spending the Christmas vacation with their parents on Manor avenue, have returned to Eagle Brook School at Deerfield, Mass.

Mrs. William T. Fuller was hostess at a supper party on Sunday at her home on Albany avenue for the benefit of Bundles for Britain.

Mrs. Chester B. Van Gaisbeek entertained her card club today at her home on St. James street.

Miss Margaret Mulligan of The Huntington is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Geagan in New York City.

Miss Anne Lockwood, who has been spending the holidays in New York City, has returned to The Huntington.

Mrs. William Karnahan of Scarsdale has been spending several days with her mother, Mrs. George Quinette of Ten Broeck avenue.

Mrs. William Niles entertained her card club at a Bundles for Britain luncheon on Tuesday at her home on Pearl street.

Mrs. Howard Terwilliger was hostess to her card club on Tuesday at her home on Emerson street.

Trinity Lutheran Church

Lists Coming Activities

On Monday evening at the annual congregation meeting of Trinity Lutheran Church Fred Paulus, William Lieske, Robert Lawatsch, Lee Gregory, George Zellmer and Percy Slover were elected as councilmen.

On J. Lawatsch was re-elected president of the congregation. These men will be officially installed into office next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock church service.

Reports of Pastor Gollnick, Treasurer Fred Paulus and the societies showed that the work of the church is growing. They were received with thanks by the congregation.

A "100th year anniversary fund" was started to be used at the celebration of the 100th year anniversary of the church.

The Hartwig Cappel Choir will sing in Trinity Lutheran Church on April 25, sponsored by the Lutheran Churches of Kingston.

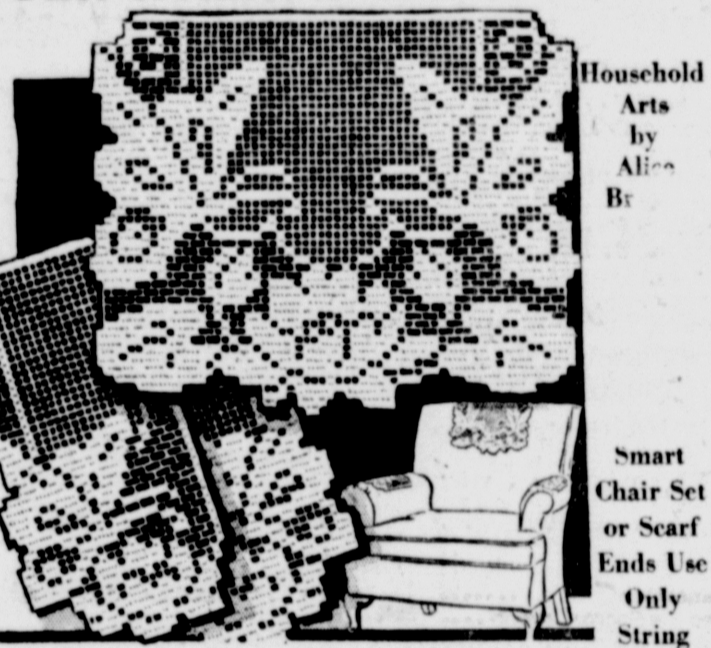

An illustrated dramatic recital of the "Passion Play of Oberammergau" will be given at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium on January 25 at 8:15 o'clock.

This is an unusual opportunity for people of Kingston to hear the celebrated Augustus E. Califano. "The Passion Play of Oberammergau" is brought to Kingston under auspices of Y. M. C. A. Couples Club and Trinity Lutheran Men's Club.

A Guest Book

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it bad manners, after writing one's name in a guest book, to glance through the other pages and read the names? I mean, is a book like this too private to take it for granted this way?

Answer: Such a book isn't considered private at all, and if one has plenty of time it is no more unusual to turn its pages than those of a photograph album—particularly if guests have illustrated it or written verses, etc. If it is nothing but a plain list of names, it is not likely to be found interesting.

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Wedding Anniversaries." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Speed Skating Races Will Be Held in Schenectady

Friesinger and Others to Appear in Dorpian City for Three-Day Event; 300 to Compete

Schenectady, N. Y.—The North American Outdoor Speed Skating Championships, to be held at Schenectady, January 31 and February 1 and 2, in connection with the Schenectady Winter Carnival, has assumed even greater importance to American skaters now that world conditions have eliminated most winter sports events abroad. Skaters who participated in the 1940 North American Outdoor Speed Skating Championships, held during last year's Schenectady Winter Carnival and sponsored by the Schenectady Junior Chamber of Commerce, all expressed their complete satisfaction with the way in which this event was handled and promised that they would each be on hand for the 1941 Championships. Skaters were especially well pleased with the condition of the course throughout last year's races. So complete were plans for the 1940 events that an alternate skating rink had been re-flooded, planned, and held in reserve in case inclement weather prohibited the holding of the races on the Schenectady Central Park lake. On hand for this year's carnival will be such outstanding exponents of the favorite winter sport as Chicago's speed skating demon Leo Friesinger, winner of the 1940 men's National and North American crowns and member of the 1940 Winter Olympic team. Another of last year's Olympic team members, Del Lamb, Milwaukee, who led the pack early in the 1940 North American Championships and who chipped the ice second fastest of all the men contestants, is expected to be in the starting line-up January 31. Chuck Leighton, a second Chicagoan who fared well at Schenectady last year is also expected to compete for the 1941 men's North American crown. In all, some 300 men and women skaters will take part in the North American (U.S.) beginning January 31 and continuing through February 2. Skating fans will be pleased to know that Pete Miller, coach of the 1940 Olympic team, is also getting his suitcase packed for his forthcoming trip to Schenectady and the North American Speed Skating Championships. Winter sports clubs as far west as Chicago and Minneapolis and as far south as Florida, where many leading skaters spend the off skating seasons, have already received their entry blanks for the speed skating events. A complete program of public participation in the carnival has been organized by the Schenectady Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Department of Parks and Recreation who are cooperating to sponsor the carnival week-end. Headquarters for the carnival have been established in the Schenectady Chamber of Commerce building. The carnival general committee has invited interested persons and organizations to write to the headquarters for any information they may desire.

ROLFE RECOVERING FROM TONSILLECTOMY

New York Yankees infielder Robert (Red) Rolfe, recovering from a tonsillectomy, reads cards from friends as he rests at his home in Penacook, N. H. Rolfe, who blamed his physical condition for a severe batting slump in 1940, predicted a "great year" for himself in 1941. Said he, "If the Yanks let me go they'll regret it."

Frankie Finn Tallies 20 Points to Help Tribe; Middies Turn Back Huntington Team

While other teams were enjoying idle days last week Middletown and Liberty played and won games against Huntington and Saugerties. Led by Frankie Finn, the present leader of the DUSO scorers, Liberty trounced Saugerties 34 to 25. Finn pumped in a grand total of 20 points. Robinson tallied seven for the Cahillmen. Totta, a sub forward of Middletown was the difference between victory and defeat as he scored 10 points to help rout Huntington, a powerful Long Island quintet. Bill Osborn flipped in eight markers for the Middies, co-holders of first place in the DUSO League. Following are the scores: Liberty (34)—Finn 20, Barzanicki 4, Manchester 2, Cooper 5, Gerow 2, Hipick 1, Saugerties (25)—Van Getten 4, Bayman 2, Overbaugh 5, Ways 2, Robinson 7, Burns 5. ## ASSOCIATED PRESS PICTURE NEWS

F.D.R. TALKS TO THE NATION—In a gravely-worded "fireside chat" that may become historic because of the scope of speech, frankness of its language, F.D.R.'s censure of dictators and "appeasers," his praise of Britain, and the size of the listening audience, President Roosevelt broadcast to the nation Dec. 29. This is the scene in the White House diplomatic reception room. The President said: "We must be the great arsenal of democracy."

PARLOR PROBLEM—There's less space but more safety—perhaps—in the parlor of the Rev. Mr. Clinton, a Congregational minister in London. He built an air-raid shelter in his home, invited two "bombed-out" evacuees to try it out.

UNDER NAZI MANAGEMENT—Typical of the identification mark required in German-occupied Poland of Jews over 10 years is this white arm band worn by a Jew who seems to be contemplating a narrow, littered street of ghetto in Szydlow.

MINES OVER MATTER—Rows of mines provide reality for this discussion of a controlled mine field and its organization, being diagrammed by an officer at Hampton Roads, Va., coast artillery school. Hampton Roads, sea gateway to nation's capital, is located in an area that embraces: Norfolk naval base, Portsmouth navy yard, Newport News shipbuilding yards.

HORNETS' NEST—Golden silence was maintained by Henrietta Evans (above), 30, chief hostess-to-be for 10,000 soldiers at Camp Shelby, Miss., after a contingent of army wives marched to the general's office, worrying over a reported quotation of Miss Evans. She was quoted as saying that she'd try to fill dates for married as well as for single soldiers.

ONE OF HUNDREDS—Often the target of Japanese bombing raids, Burma road bridges are quickly repaired by Chinese crews. This Burma bridge is one of 500 spans on the winding highway over which war supplies for Chiang Kai-shek are sent.

PARKS MAN—John E. Doerr, Jr. (above), who'll become chief of the national park service after Jan. 1, is a native of Mount Vernon, Ind.

"I like the way
Personal
has simplified borrowing"

"I READ in the paper the other day that The Personal Finance Company has a new Application Form that simplifies borrowing. So when I needed cash to pay off a stack of old bills I stopped in one of their offices near my home. The new Form certainly did simplify things and speed up service. It only asked questions relating to my identity and ability to make small monthly repayments. I wasn't asked to bring in co-signers and everyone was real friendly and helpful. No wonder people talk about getting CASH-plus at Personal."

YOU GET CASH-plus WITH A LOAN FROM PERSONAL

These "pluses" have helped us become the largest loan company in New York:

LOAN SPECIALISTS—Because making personal loans of $20 to $300 is our full time business, we often are able to arrange loans that would be impossible elsewhere.

MINIMUM SECURITY—Most loans are made on no other security than your signature (husband and wife usually sign together), or your furniture.

PRIVACY—Our new Application Form asks only about your identity and your ability to make small monthly payments. No revealing questions are asked of your employer, relatives or friends.

ECONOMY—You are not charged in advance for a set length of time—you pay only for the number of days you use the money.

CONSIDERATION—Personal will meet you more than halfway if an emergency arises after you get your loan and you need extra money, or a new loan plan.
